Antes de sus incursiones fotográficas dentro del mundo de la sexualidad femenina y en cuestiones de género dentro del continente africano, trabajaba como activista de los derechos humanos dentro de su comunidad.

Présentation de l'éditeur

Promoted by Casa Africa, this collection is aimed at making the most outstanding African women photographers better known, particularly those who have won the Casa Africa Award at the Bamako African Photography Biennial. Our aim is to draw attention to the broad-ranging diversity of African photography and the solid creativity of its photographers. Zanele Muholi is the first title of this collection. Born in Durban (South Africa) in 1972, Muholi is a visual activist who endeavours to give greater visibility to the black lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersexual community of her country and beyond. Although her perspective is highly radical and provocative, it is simultaneously filtered through a truly intense, lucid and profoundly tender gaze.
